Homecoming Victory Spurs Marshall Spirit

The 1970 Homecoming began with a pep rally which instilled excitement and spirit into the hearts of all Marshallites. At the pep rally, several speeches were made, skits were performed, cheerleaders cheered, and the traditional gold horseshoe was presented to the captain of the football team, Bob Dirk. The queen, Diana Newmann, was also announced then.

The next day, October 24, at 12:30, a colorful parade of floats and cars began. Five floats, one from each grade, and twelve cars were entered. The parade started at 66th and Congress and proceeded to Custer Stadium. The Junior float, entitled "Can Hamilton", won first prize. The first place car belonged to Steve Recht.

Following the parade, the football game began, attended by over 2,000 excited Marshall fans. One thousand red and blue helium balloons were released in the stadium to mark the beginning of this homecoming event. Marshall led in the first quarter with a 6 to 0 score. By half-time, Hamilton had taken over the lead. The score was 7 to 6. As the game continued, an unlucky number appeared on the scoreboard. Fortunately, it was unlucky for Hamilton. From a 13-13 tie, Marshall went on to win by 14 points. The final score — 27 to 13.

During half-time, the marching band and drill team performed. They were backed by 22 cheerleaders, some of whom were returning alumni. The ceremonies for the queen and her court also took place. The court consisted of Debbie Anheier, Karolyn Bohnak, Sue Grote, Janet Ruetz, Jodie Dobbe, and Jane Plutshack.

At 8:00 that night, the homecoming dance was held. Its theme was "Homecoming '70." "Peoples' Movement", an eleven piece soul band, provided entertainment and brought an end to a perfect homecoming weekend.

1970 COURT

New Decade Brings New Ideas

With "a great deal of faith in young people" Mr. Eugene Hackett succeeded Mr. Oliver Wergin as John Marshall's principal this year. Originally a journalism major at Marquette University, Mr. Hackett taught English at Rufus King and enlisted in the army before returning to teaching and administrative work in 1946. In 1966, Mr. Hackett became principal of West Division, where he remained until coming to Marshall.

Among the goals Mr. Hackett has been striving for include the hope that things can be kept in proportion when students are given freedom and that they will respond by handling the responsibilities given them.

This year John Marshall has also two other new administrators, Mr. Wayne Elliot and Mr. Jack Felser, Assistant Principals.

Mr. Elliot graduated from UWM with a major in upper elementary education. He went to graduate school in 1967 to earn his master's degree in educational psychology. He then became vocational guidance director at Solomon Juneau High and later field representative for the Assistant Superintendent of Schools. This position he retained until coming to Marshall this year.

Mr. Felser majored in art education at UW-Madison. He became a guidance director and later vice principal of the newly-opened Audubon Junior High School where he remained until coming to Marshall.

One Kiss Is Worth A Thousand Words

Chuck Berget explains to Jay Hildebrandt "how to get cool."

Jenny Kissed Me, a three-act comedy by Jean Kerr, was presented in John Marshall's auditorium on Friday, November 13, and Saturday, November 14. The play was directed by Mr. Ralph Bielenberg, who was assisted in matters of staging and lighting by Mr. John Frost.

The action takes place in the rectory of St. Matthew's parish. Father Moynihan (Jay Hildebrandt) pastor of St. Matthew's, is cemented in his old-fashioned ways, and totally out of touch with the younger generation. His sarcasm and dry humor are amusing to only a few, one of whom is Michael Saunders (Rick Ludwig), a young educator in his thirties. Father's housekeeper, Mrs. Deazy (Cheryl Rae Gardiner), is a strong-willed as the old priest himself, and the only one who can always get the better of him. Her niece is Jenny (Vicky Sebele), fresh, naive, sincere, with a penchant for guppies and a passion for books. Father's futile attempts to make her over and match her up with the 100% "with it" Owen Parkside (Chuck Berget) form the basis for this delightfully funny play. Other members of the parish who keep popping in and out of the rectory include a busybody spinster, a go-getter nun, and an assorted sampling of all-too-typical schoolgirls from the neighboring, parish-supported parochial school.

The presentation had a modern setting. Special costuming was taken care of by the costume crew, headed by Martha Stuck, and under the supervision of Mrs. Waltraut Raccoli. A rented set served as St. Matthew's rectory.

Eagles Take

Under the guidance of Coach Raymond Hendrickson, Marshall Gridders took second place in the city conference this past year, tying with Hamilton. Beginning the season with two victories, the first game won over Lincoln, 34-6, and the second over West, 21-6, they went on to suffer their only defeat of the season by losing to Rufus King, this year's city champions, by one point. The final score was a disheartening 18-17.

Among the highlights of the season were: shutting out a fired up Pulaski team with a 35-0 score; upsetting Hamilton's chances for a first in city with a 27-13 at Homecoming; and ending the season with a shut out over Bay View, 42-0.

The strength of this year's team was attributed to powerful ground attack by Tom Ricco, backfield work by Paul Katz, and the everthreatening passing attack due to Terry Parmelee's fine aerial gains.

Six players were named to the first string all city team. They were: Jerry Diehl, defensive tackle; Bob Dirk, offensive tackle; Mark Gregerson, defensive end; Tom Ricco, fullback; Steve Silvast, offensive guard; and Dave Weeks, linebacker. Named to the all city second team were Paul Katz, Terry Parmelee, and Dave Roessl.

New Things Stirring In Kitchen

First and fourth hours in Room 130, the Home Economics room, were very lively indeed. These were the hours the senior boys showed off talents and learned techniques in the food department. Under the supervision of Mrs. Velma Mahood with Mrs. Lorraine Cary, the student teacher, assisting, the boys cooked some choice delicacies and some not so choice delicacies. These foods included a complete Thanksgiving dinner with entrees such as turkeys, Cornish hens, and freshly hunted squirrels and rabbits. Other foods on the menu were pizza, spaghetti, lasagna, steaks, hamburgers, French toast, eggs, bread, cookies, pies, and brownies. The boys enjoyed working and eating the results. Striders Take State

The Marshall Striders, after having enjoyed a highly successful year, came through with one of their best efforts of the season to win the Division A state high school cross country meet. Coming back after a discouraging third place finish in their sectional run, the striders scored 80 points, defeating their closest competitor and last year's city championship team, Boys' Tech, which had 88 points.

Marshall displayed fine pack running by placing three runners in the top fifteen. Scoring for Marshall in the meet were seniors Al Gamroth, tenth place, and Karroll Bohnak, twelvth place, and sophomore Rich Zaborske, thirteenth place. Completing the scoring were junior John Messler, twenty-first place, and senior Marc Muskavitch, twenty-fourth place. Roland Wolferstetter and Donn Behnke rounded out Marshall's state championship team.

The state meet victory was the tenth of the season for the Striders and the one hundredth win in Coach Leo Potochnik's career.

Throughout the season, the Striders displayed team effort, which they proved essential for a championship team, by winning all of their major invitational meets, including their first victory in the Marshall invitational since its inception in 1966.

Chemistry labs are often the scene of substantiating theories and lecture notes. Although chemistry labs were not meant to be learning experiences, they often were. Through the use of scales and other apparatus, students acquired scientific technique.

Records and data tables were to be kept in detail because a slight error may have thrown the answer way off course.

In the labs, sutdents had natural gas sinks at their disposal. Once in a while some students became mischievous and tinkered with the plumbing. This resulted in people holding the faucet knob in their hand while being sprayed with water.

Students Broaden Their Field

Under the supervision of Mr. Marcel Lachenmann, the Biology 3 and 4 classes made three field trips this past year. On these occasions the forty-six students traveled by bus to get an educational view of the biological world.

The first trip was to a Kettle Moraine forest near Beechwood. The students observed field ecology in the woods, swamps, grasslands and lake habitats in that area. The trip was both educational and enjoyable.

Whitnall Park and the Milwaukee County Zoo were sites viewed on a second trip. At the park, the students were able to observe plant life concentrated in ideal conditions. While visiting the zoo, they were able to view the adaptations of animals in areas different from their natural habitat.

The trip to the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago was open to some chemistry and physics students, as well as those in Biology 3 and 4. The purpose was to stimulate interest in all branches of science. The students were also able to observe exhibits not available in school.

Flame Of Learning Lit

The National Honor Society is an organization that acknowledges students who excel in scholarship, leadership, and service. Its main purpose is to recognize those who have aided their school and their community.

This year the National Honor program was held on November 20. This program was held for seniors only. The program was held in the fall in order to aid seniors in their applications to various colleges and scholarships.

One of the requirments for acceptance into this society is a 3.5 grade point average. The students must also have recommendations from teachers. These students are then chosen by Mrs. Iva Johnson, Chairman of the National Honor Society, and various faculty members.

A traditional candle-lighting ceremony, followed by a tea, was used to initiate new members into the society.

Pandemonium Highlights Dance

In his customary warm and generous manner, Santa Claus took time off from the busy holiday season to lend Marshall two elves to grace the Turnabout Dance on December 19, 1970. The jolly visitors greeted couples attending the dance and passed out candy canes.

The decorations also highlighted the theme of "Crystals and Candy." A Christmas tree, decorated with candy canes, lent a holiday air, while glittering silver ornaments, hung from the ceiling, sparkled gaily. Soft blue and red lighting gave everything an unreal effect and transformed Marshall's cafeteria into a romantic dreamworld.

The Pandemonium Shadow Show provided the music for the dance. One of the high points of the evening was the crowning of the Snow Queen, senior Debbie Neuburg. The members of her court, each bearing a single long-stemmed rose, were freshman Cindy Gasper, sophomore Margaret Laning, and junior Marie Daly.

Although the dance lasted from 8:00 until 11:30, it was still over too soon for some of the couples.

Concert Warms Cold Evening

John Marshall's Concert Orchestra and A Cappella Choir combined forces in the Winter Concert, held on January 29, 1971.

The emphasis was on the work of contemporary composers, with a liberal sprinkling of the traditional for those with more conservative tastes. The Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Frank Orlando, performed two modern numbers, Maurice Ravel's "Pavane" and Igor Stravinsky's "Berceuse and Finale." The latter was conducted by Miss Kathleen Fraser, Department Assistant from UWM.

With Mr. Robert Beduhn directing, the choir also incorporated elements of the old and the new. Adriano Banchieri's whimsical "Counterpart of the Animals" (circa 1600) provided a strong contrast to a serious modern number by Alan Hovhaness, "Out of the Depths," with Linda Snodgrass as soloist.

Boys Excel In Free Style

Although they did not fulfill their desired expectations in the 1970-71 season, Marshall swimmers made up for their lack of support in the backstroke and individual medley areas by excelling in the free style. The four basic events were the breast stroke, butterfly, backstroke, and the free style.

The basic competition this year was from Boys' Tech, Madison, and Hamilton High Schools. Practice commenced in November, and under the assistance of Mr. David Polachek and Mr. Keith Bailie, Varsity and B-team coaches, respectively, the swimmers practiced nightly until the season ended with the WIAA state meet in Madison on February 27. Workouts sometimes consisted of a 30 length warm up, 10 fifties — chaseback, five 100-kicks, and a 40 length endurance swim; approximately one and a half miles of swimming were covered each night.

Community Resources Utilized

Office Education is a cooperative training program in which selected senior students earn credit as well as pay in preparing for an office occupation. The D.E. program not only allows selected senior students to "earn as they learn," but provides meaningful club activities as well.

This year the O.E. class entered a car in the Homecoming parade winning third place. The theme was "FILE the Wildcats — they are not our TYPE." The class had several fund-raising projects to earn money for their annual employer-employee banquet and were also involved in a volunteer project sponsored by the Easter Seal Society. On March 13 they participated in the O.E. Intra-City Contest, which tested their ability and knowledge in office skills and procedures. Approximately 250 students competed in eleven contest, including job interview and spelling.

The O.E. class was affiliated with state and national FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America). On March 26 they attended the State Leadership Conference in Green Lake.

The students also actively participated in "Office Education Week" which promoted the program throughout the school and recruited students for next year. Their principle activity was the Appreciation Banquet held at the Fox and Hounds, May 19.

Meyerson Model Takes 1st

The 1971 annual model building competition, sponsored by Allied Construction Employers Association, was held in January. The challenge was to design and build a neighborhood containing single and multi-family units according to present day land planning concepts. The site was an area north of Capitol Drive along the Milwaukee River. The area is now utilized as a city dump.

The first prize overall went to the top model of the 200 entries throughout southeastern Wisconsin. It was a 4-year engineering scholarship or a $300 cash award. The second prize overall consisted of a 2-year scholarship in structural technology or a $200 cash award. Third prize provided a $100 cash award.

Ten models were entered at Marshall. Of them four went on to the semi-finals. They were Fred Meyerson, Richard Scott, Johm Borosch, and George Zinke. Fred Meyerson went on to win first place in the Milwaukee Public Schools division and fourth in the finals.

Cagers Keep Cool

The Marshall cagers started the 1970-71 season with one of the toughest preseason schedules of their history. They played Appleton West, Pius XI, Madison West, and Oconomowoc. Appleton West won the state championship last year for public schools, while Pius won the independent state championship. These two and Madison West were rated in the top polls all this season. Although the Eagles lost all three, they played strong ball and gained experience in playing strong opponents. The team easily beat Oconomowoc 71-52.

Hamilton was the Eagles' first challenger of Marshall's 1969-70 city championship. The Eagles outlasted the Wildcats 65-61. Marshall's best played game of the season was against North, when by leading by more than 12 points throughout the first half, the Eagles lost in the final seconds by one point — 90-89. With only three seconds left against West Division, Ken Beck sank two free throws in the bonus situation to give the Eagles a 60-59 victory. They were involved in five games which were won or lost by four points. The Eagles compiled a final conference record of six wins and eight losses.

One of the brightest points of the season was the fact that the juniors gained valuable playing experience for next season. Dave Pitzo played very strong ball the second half of the season and obtained the starting position of center. Bruce Ashworth, Kevin and Keith Burns, Tom Jelacic, and John Schultz all started in at least one game this season and a much improved season record is expected for next year.

Smoke, Choke, Croak

"Got a cigarette? Got a light? Got an oxygen tent?" was the dialog which took place between Gladys Ormphby and her unlikely suitor in a student production entitled "Cough-In."

Originally intended as entertainment for a teachers' workshop on the evils of smoking, a shortened version was aired last February on Contact, a television program geared to teen-agers. "Cough-In" was the brain-child of thirteen members of Marshall's Drama Club, who not only performed in their skit, but wrote, edited, and staged the production as well. Mr. Ralph Bielenberg advised the students and offered suggestions and criticism.

The skit itself, a parody on Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In, incorporated many standard Laugh-In features such as the party and news of the future. Departures from the accustomed format included the Smokers' Choir, with soloist Jay Hildebrandt, and the Man on the Street sequence, in which sense is literally thrashed into the head of an unfortunate smoker. From slapstick to subtle satire, "Cough-In" approached the problem of smoking with humor and candor.

During the summer the girls sponsored car washes to raise money for a trip to a cheerleading camp in Minnesota. Here the cheerleaders learned new cheers, good sportsmanship and gained invaluable experience.

During the school year the girls organized bake sales, participated in pep rallies, and supported the teams by selling pins and pendants. The cheerleaders also assisted the Pep Club in promoting the third annual Winter Sports Week.

The cheerleading captains were Barb Smolik, football; and Karen Kaiser, basketball.

Boys Are On Pins And Kneeholds

Having devoted a year to rebuilding this year's varsity wrestling team finished the season rating second in the city, with an 11-1 overall record.

Under the guidance of Coach Robert Foti, the team produced many effective grapplers. Four outstanding members on the wrestling squad were: Bob Hackney at 115 pounds with a season record of 20-1-1-; Ed Shardt at 126 pounds with a record of 18-4; Bob Dettman at 138 pounds with a record of 19-4; and Robbie Lacarra at 145 pounds with a record of 13-4. Stamina was the reason for excellence since both physical and mental training were needed, wrestling being a sport requiring both brain and brawn for the different situations which could and did arise.

Wrestling matches consisted of three periods, each two minutes in duration. During the first period of the match, both wrestlers began in a standing position, each struggling to bring down his opponent. The remaining two periods were appropriated for the two wrestlers to commence in a downward position, the objective being striving for a "pin," or merely for points, which could enable a grappler to win without the pin.

Augmented

New life was given to the curriculum at Marshall with the addition of five new courses for the 1970-71 school year. The subjects were designed for the purpose of bringing helpful knowledge and understanding of basic ideas not normally connected with school life to students.

The new courses cover a multitude of different topics and ideas. These included: a thorough look at the universe beyond our planet; the exploration of underwater worlds too deep for the unaided human body; a look at the oppression of people whose ideas or customs are strange to the majority; the state of our world today, its advancements and difficulties; and a look at the ever-growing aspects of communication.

The courses were Astronomy, Scuba-Diving, Minorities, Contemporary World Affairs, and Mass Media.

The new courses did not require the addition of any new teachers to the staff. They were taught by Marshall teachers with some previous experience and qualifications for the subjects.

Marshall students gave the change in curriculum a favorable reception. While most sutdents did not come in contact with the courses, the ones that did appreciated the chance to experience them.

Gymnasts Come On Strong

Although the Marshall gymnastic team did not compile a strong dual meet record this past year, they made great strides in larger meets. In the Homestead Invitational, they proved to have a lot of potential when they took third place behind strong Homestead, and Milwaukee Washington, while defeating Waukehsa and Green Bay Preble. They also captured 2nd place in the Marshall Invitational against terrific competition.

With only 3 seniors and 4 returning lettermen, Coach Robert Verbick commented that the season was primarily used for rebuilding.

At the Stout State Invitational, Marshall placed 10th out of 20 top schools from Wisconsin and Minnesota. Individual placements from Marshall were: Andy Patzke, second on long horse; Dave Laning, eighth on side horse; and Bernie Van Wie, ninth on parallel bars and seventh in the All Around event.

The officers of the Pep Club were Jane Plutshack, president; Linda Loeffler, vice-president; Linda Lippert, secretary; Karen Machleith, treasurer; and Andy Plauman and Barb Keene, poster and skit committee chairmen. The Pep Club advisors, Mrs. Sharon Arbiture and Mrs. Sally Gunerman, usually did not have to do much to motivate these girls to promote spirit throughout the school year.

Additions Add Color

Many new additions have changed Marshall during this past year. Last May, after students had walked across the muddy grass of door one and door four for many months, new diagonal sidewalks were finally installed at the cost of more than three thousand dollars. The new sidewalks enable Marshall students to get to these doors from the street approximately 1.4 times faster.

Lines and figure eights painted on the asphalt have transformed Marshall's playground into the driving range for Driver Education Three students. The driving range is used as a prerequisite for actual on-the-road training.

In October the John Marshall Eagle was raised into its towering position atop the building. A fierce symbol of Marshall spirit, it was a gift from the June '70 graduating class.

Boys Sharpen Their Mechanical Skills

This year more boys than ever have entered Industrial Arts classes. Most are seeking new skills and trying to acquire more information on trades they might take part in in their post-high school years. Boys enrolled in Industrial Arts are also given a chance to develop the common sense and firm discipline which are two of the most desired characteristics in any vocation.

This year's classes were taught by: Mr. Atwell, Department Head and Senior Drawing; Mr. Bailie, Metal and Basic Electronics; Mr. Cornwell, Senior Drawing; Mr. Everman, Junior Wood and Metal Shop; Mr. Johnson, Senior Wood and Electronics; Mr. Giese, Electronics; Mr. Klug and Mr. Nelson, Senior Woodshop.

Among the equipment used in Industrial Arts Classes were oscilliscopes, power saws, lathes, and a large melting furnace.

With such interesting courses and equipment available, it is no wonder so many boys signed up for Industrial Arts classes.

Girls Grace Gymnastics

The Girl's Advanced Physical Education Class was formed in 1967 to provide qualified girls with specialized training in the field of gymnastics. The class met every Wednesday and Friday night after school. It was composed of girls from various grade levels who have passed tryouts, and had an unlimited membership. The girls were divided into various performing groups: balance beams, uneven bars, vaulting, and free exercise.

The girls participated in city-wide gymnastic meets and clinics. The class also provided half-time entertainment at home basketball games as well as presenting an auditorium program at Juneau High School and performing in the annual Visual and Performing Arts Night at Marshall. This year the girl gymnasts had a part in the Christmas program in addition to their other numerous activities.

Girls' gymnastics is rapidly growing in the Milwaukee high schools and as the field grows, the talent increases.

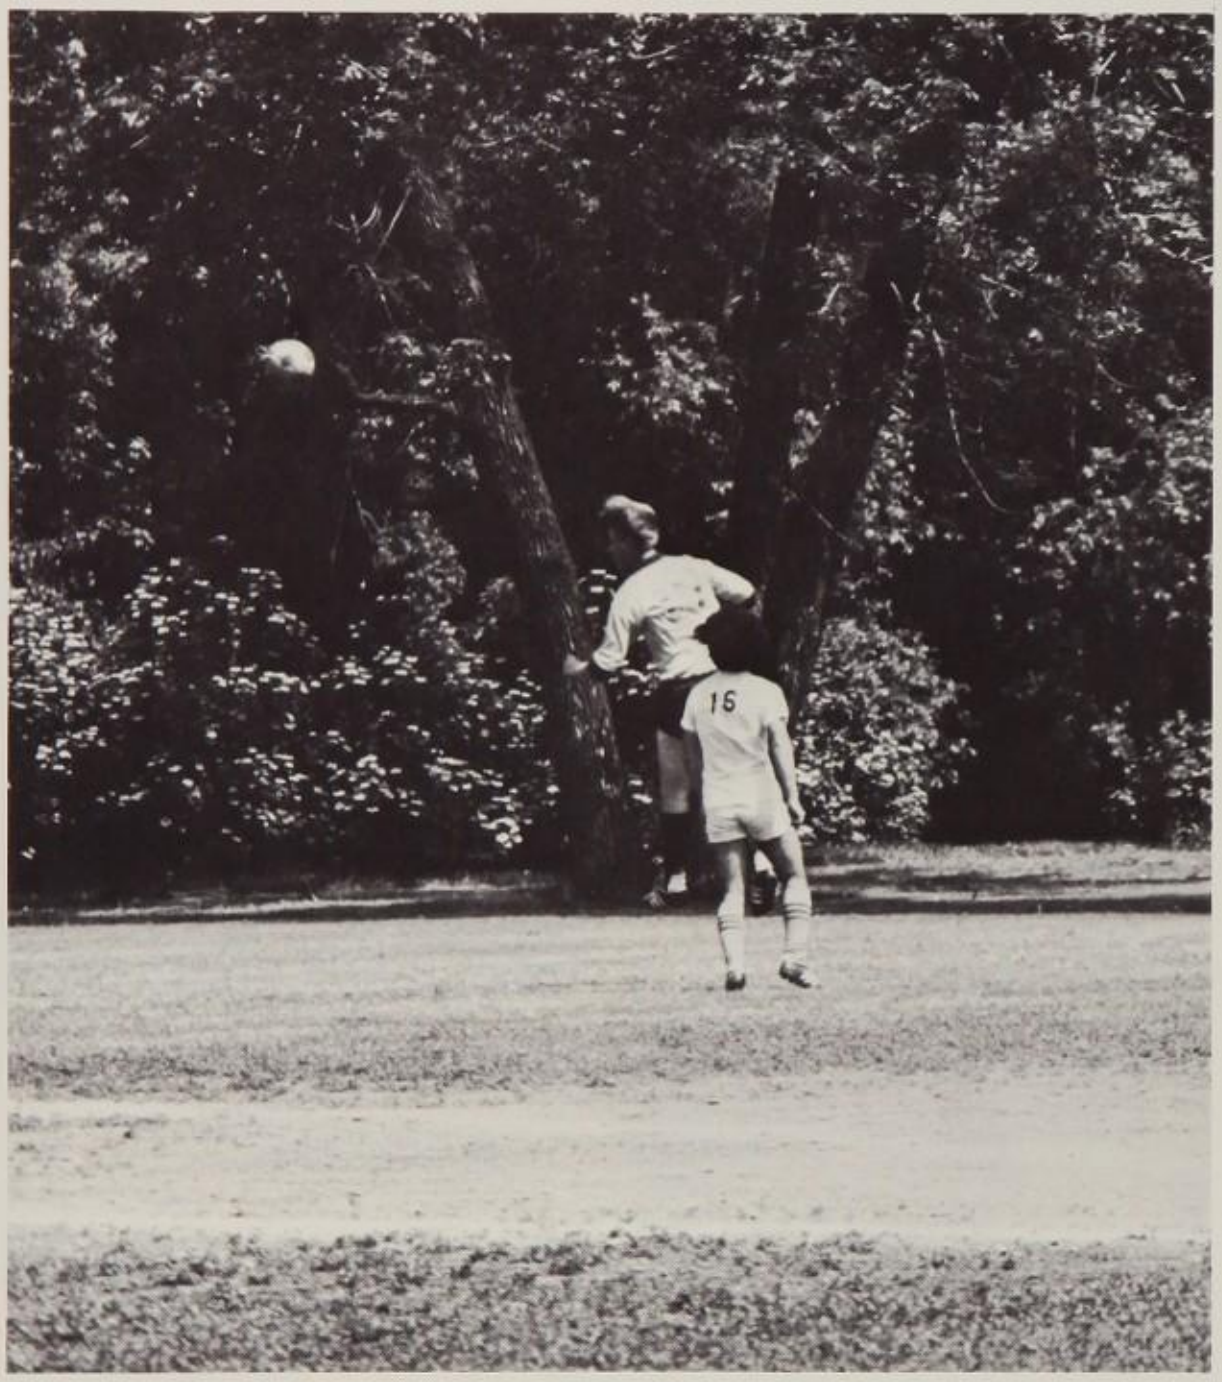
Soccer Club Gets Off On Right Foot



Bahram Mohgarei stands ready as the ball flies off an opponent's head.

Two years ago a new club came into existence, the Soccer Club. The club, an outgrowth of the German Club, was organized by Mr. Rolf Altwein, former advisor and coach. Mr. John Schissler has since taken over the advising and coaching positions.

Soccer involves teamwork and coordination. It takes a great amount of practice to maneuver the ball. The sport boasts very few injuries, due to the fact that there is no physical contact.

Soccer is a relatively inexpensive sport since the only equipment needed is a soccer ball. Soccer is a sport in which people of all sizes may participate. The soccer team practices twice a week during the school year and once a week during the summer.

Eagle Batters Burn Up Bases

Coach Roger Hytinen summarized the 1970 baseball season as a "disappointing but successful" one. The Eagles finished with a 12-5-1 overall record, placing seventh among the fifteen teams in the city conference.

A highlight of the season was the naming of Vic Gasperetti to the Journal and Sentinel first All-City baseball squad, and Mike Rapp to the second team. Tim O'Neill's fine defense at first base, and the combined efforts of Ted Marino, Steve Rottler and Tom Truppe made a powerful team.

The 1971 year was used for rebuilding, with only four returning lettermen. The experience of pitchers Ken Beck and Dave Armstrong, shortstop Larry Domnitz, and outfielder Glen Mittelstadt strengthened the team.

Having Fun Comes Naturally In Spring

Spring finally came, the last of three seasons in a Marshall school year, with a crisp autumn and a brisk winter preceding it. With each budding flower came the start of new events and activities.

Boys participating in sports hustled, sweated, drilled, and drove for the finest scores. Clubs continuing through the school year culminated their activities, and services rendered were finally rewarded. The annual prom was held, as were the spring musical and concerts, which helped to carry students through tedious and tiring exams.

And so spring arrived. This section shows the activities which kept Marshall students busy during the last two months of the school year.

Marshall's second annual Visual and Performing Arts Night was presented on April 24. The Visual Arts part of the program transformed Marshall corridors into an art gallery for the early part of the evening. Visitors were free to roam about and view the artwork at will.

At eight o'clock the emphasis shifted as the auditorium filled for the Performing Arts segment. Selected vocalists and instrumentalists displayed superb musicianship. Members of Miss Esther Heiden's Dance Ensemble demonstrated grace and coordination in an original composition entitled "Sounds of Movement," while members of her Advanced Gym Class performed with beauty and precision on the balance beam.

Linksmen Capture City Conference Title

The 1969-1970 John Marshall golf team was composed of twelve strong members who, through combined efforts, captured a first place city tournament title and a second place in the Round Robin match play, or dual team competition. They took fourth in the state sectional, losing the final match before the state tournament.

Captain Dave Engelke, along with Larry Tatur, Dave Karnel, Stuart Blacher and Scott Yakes, completed the lettermen squad. Commencing practice in March, the members of the team worked nightly playing matches and practicing on various county courses, among which Currie Park and Dretzka were the most frequently used.

When asked which school presented the roughest match, Coach John Bruggink commented that Madison High School played an exceptionally fine game. Coach Bruggink, a golf enthusiast for fourteen years, summarized the team's achievements as a "tremendous season", and looked forward to continued success in 1971 with three returning lettermen.

Alan Katz successfully returns the serve at a practice match.

The seven members of the varsity tennis team batted their way to a second place standing in the city tournament last spring, with a total of 50 wins and six losses. Tom Mankiewicz and Marty Coello combined their skill to win the city championship in the doubles tournament. Mr. Lee Zwick, the coach, felt that all the players did a tremendous job.

Tom Mankiewicz was voted the most outstanding player of the season. Other team members who displayed great effort were Gary Greenberg, Tom Grall, Eric Richfield, and captain Al Heber.

Mr. Zwick was not too optimistic about the next season's team, as many former players had graduated, or were working, or had some other conflict that prevented them from joining the team. He did feel that Rick Mechanic, Al Katz, and Eric Richfield showed great promise.

According to Mr. Zwick, tennis is a pretty well-accepted sport at Marshall, and the boys who make the team work hard to make it a winning one.

Fiddler Enchants Audience

Marshall's production of Fiddler on the Roof played to sell-out audiences on April 1, 2, and 3. The musical, hailed as the second-longest running play on Broadway, was directed by Mr. John Frost, dramatics, and Mr. Robert Beduhn, music. The original choreography was reproduced by Miss Esther Heiden, assisted by Mrs. Susan Rondeau.

The fiddler symbolizes the Jewish tradition of pre-revolutionary Russia. This tradition is focused upon the life of Tevye, a poor dairyman, and his wife Golde. There in the small town of Anatevka they struggled to raise their five daughters. During the course of the play, their three eldest daughters, Tzeitel, Hodel, and Chava defy tradition by marrying with out the help of a matchmaker. But the final blow comes when all the Jews are forced to leave their homes in Anatevka. Yet, Tevye puts his faith in God, and with his two remaining daughters, sets out to begin a new life in America.

Mr. Robert Zacher designed the set for the play. Costumes were under the supervision of Miss Laeh Bensman.

Students Step Out In Style

The backstage area was a pandemonium of frenzied and excited Marshall students on February 24. The students were earnestly preparing for the T.A. Chapman's fashion show which was presented as an auditorium program for Group I.

Linda Lippert and Pat Annesley, T.A. Chapman teen board representatives from Marshall, were the student coordinators for the show. They, assisted by faculty advisors Mrs. Betty Steinke and Mr. Richard Steele, selected Marshall junior and senior boys and girls to participate as models. The aspirants were judged by their walk. Clothing size was also a consideration. Linda and Pat then taught those chosen the techniques of modeling.

Everything from sportswear to loungewear to formal wear was modeled by the 22 girls and 10 boys participating in the show.

The models, in preparation, had to be fitted with appropriate clothes at the downtown Chapman store. Several run-throughs preceded the final presentation.

Brainstorm Douses Opponents

Members of Marshall's "Who Knows?" team, Mark McGuire, Marc Muskavitch, and Bruce Stockmeir, overwhelmed Lake Mills High School 506 to 110 in the first round of the WITI-TV6 show on February 17. The team, including alternate Paul Carter, was advised by Mr. Ralph Bielenberg.

The panelists were selected through an extensive written exam. From that, the four finalists were chosen out of the ten highest scores.

Competition on the quiz program included six rounds of questions, each with a different point allotment. During each of the first three eliminations, the winning school received $50, the loser, $25. For the fourth and championship round, the winning school was awarded $200, the loser, $100.

A desire to know and a stimulation of youth towards knowledge were the goals of "Who Knows?" TV6 personality Tony Karr hosted the show.

Runners get set for an enduring sprint.

Craig Podratz puts great effort into his final long jump.

Cindermen Take Third In City

During the 1970 season, Marshall Cindermen placed third in city. Accounting for the team's success was their unity in team effort, rather than individual advancement. However, Marshall produced individual city champs: Mike Rozmarynowski, Shot put, and Wally Saeger, mile run. Mike Rozmarnowski broke Washington's 17-year record in the city shot put.

Coach Joseph Tarantino guided the team in many long, hard hours of work in after-school practices which provided the necessary rebuilding. Although many strong seniors were lost by 1970 graduation, the 1971 season will be strangthened by the returning lettermen.

Glen Goelz and Mark Seltzer set the pace for the runners.

Rick Zaborski and Karroll Bohnak strive to overtake Cudahy's team.

Prom Mirrors Love

"Reflections of Love" was the theme of this year's prom which was held in the cafeteria Saturday evening, May 1, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Pete Leo's orchestra furnished the music.

Decorations included columns in the colors of silver, lime green, lemon yellow, and white, and a fountain with cupids shooting water. The crowning of the queen and the grand march took place at 10:00 p.m. Faculty chairman of the prom was Mr. Richard Steele, assisted by Mr. Jerry Grillo along with student chairman, Mary Rust.

Post prom was held in the Sheraton-Schroeder Crystal ballroom from 12:30 to 3:30 a.m. Family at Mac's, formerly Yesterday's Children, provided the music for the post prom.

This year's prom court consisted of Queen Cindy Kolbeck and King Mike Rapp, Terrie Vogel and Dave Weeks, Debbie Ganders and Steve Silvast, Sue Grassinger and Steve Krumrei, Claudia Whittow and Terry Parmelee, Gwen Simonis and Bob Alioto, and Linda Campbell and Ken Beck.

The 117 members of the A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Robert Beduhn, rehearsed daily second hours in Room 252. There were always new numbers to be learned and old ones to be perfected and memorized in preparation for the choir's many concerts. Their performances included a pre-recorded television appearance on Christmas, the annual caroling trip in which choir alumni also took part, the Winter and Spring Concerts, and the Broadway musical Fiddler on the Roof on April 1, 2, and 3.

In September, initiations and elections were held. The result of the initiations was the addition of 52 new voices to the group. The elections resulted in this year's officers: Jay Hildebrandt, president; Ronald Wolferstetter, vice-president; Cheryl Rae Gardiner, secretary; Donna Gokey, treasurer; and Bruce Efflandt, mascot.

The second step in the singing department at Marshall is the Girls' Glee Club. After being in the Mixed Chorus, girls may try out for this course to receive further training for their final goal, the A Cappella Choir.

The girls were chosen for the chorus on the basis of sight-reading ability, voice quality, and previous training. After being accepted, the girls had to go through a humiliating initiation. Gym suits, curlers, and teddy bears set the girls off from their classmates on initaition day.

Because there were more than eighty girls, there had to be two classes, one third hour and one seventh. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Beduhn, the Girls' Chorus performed at the Christmas program and the Spring Concert.

The goal of the Quill and Scroll International Honorary Society is to recognize and reward excellence in the field of high school journalism. A student who qualifies for membership must be recommended by the faculty advisor of his journalistic work.

The Quill and Scroll are symbols of the importance of journalism and writing. The Quill represent the meticulous care which must be put forth to turn thoughts into language. The Scroll represents the permanent quality of good writing.

Under the direction of faculty advisor Mr. Frederick Winter, the athletic monitors were once again busy keeping some of the school's finances in order.

This year's five athletic monitors were Trudy Moratz, Debbie Jankowski, Doris Janke, Claudia Minor, and Dorene Gruetzmacher. These girls gave up one study hall a day in order to help with athletic registration and scheduling, and to put up bulletin boards.

The girls were recommended by teachers who feel that they are qualified to handle the job.

The Publications Business Staff had the task of handling the subscription drives for the Newspaper and the Annual. They received, recorded, and deposited all the subscription money from the homeroom representatives, and they kept the payment records current for each homeroom. Another task was the distribution of the newspaper every two weeks.

The senior Business Manager was also charged with the responsibility of procuring ads, setting up an ad layout for each issue, and billing the advertisers. She was also responsible for sending out copies to all the city schools, and many schools throughout the U.S.

While reading this Annual, one may wonder how it all comes into being. If one had passed Room 153 during eighth hour, the answer would have been found. Here the Annual staff met daily with advisor Mr. Thomas Marx to compile and create the yearbook.

The staff itself consisted of students in grades 9-12. They were chosen by the editorial staff at the end of the school year through written statements regarding their desire to work on the Annual.

Working in connection with Sprangers Studio and the Marshall Camera Club, the staff was able to record the visual highlights of the school year with pictures.

The new editors have now been chosen and they are already deciding on the theme for the 1972 Gavel Annual.

This year the Gavel newspaper went underground — they acquired a new office in room 141, an air raid shelter. Along with the K rations, sea biscuits, and portable sanitation units, the press managed to have a pencil sharpener installed to make the room, lacking of windows, a clock, heat, and bells a somewhat permanent location.

Remarked Editor Jon Kanitz, "The Gavel endeavored to be a more socially reflective, provocative, and meaningful expression of what concerns students. I was after dynamic subjects which would stimulate thought. The cultural revolution we experience has a dramatic place in high school newspaper. Youth could be swallowed up by events; we must try to understand this world we are inheriting."

Editions of the Gavel have devoted space to human rights, women's liberation, student activism, and revolutionary controversies in education. Articles have included interviews with an author discussing drugs, and a member of YIP (Youth International Party).

Council Backs Community Projects

Significant policy changes started the Student Council on a year of new additions and community action activities. These accomplishments were made under the supervision of two newly acquired advisors, Mr. Albert Villasenor and Mr. Donald Barczak, and the officers, President Marc Muskavitch, Vice President David Laning, Treasurer Cathie Gousha, Corresponding Secretary Mary O'Hara, Sergeant-at-Arms Elliot Eskin, Member-at-Large Joyce Gonis, and Recording Secretary Barb Kucinski.

After discussions with the Exec Board, Principal Eugene Hackett established an open lunch hour. A committee compiled a list of neighboring restaurants that welcomed Marshall students. Other activities included the Homecoming Parade and a Thanksgiving food basket collection. The Council also supported a series of television programs dealing with the dangers of drug abuse.

Theatre fans, music critics, students and parents alike were greeted at the auditorium doors and escorted to their seats by the congenial Marshallettes. Always smiling, the Marshallettes spent much time ushering and greeting visitors to Marshall. They were invariably at such school functions as plays, concerts, orientation days, graduation, and open house.

The girls who join Marshallettes must maintain a 3.0 or better grade point average, must be in grades nine through twelve, and must have two recommendations from teachers. A Marshallette's training includes becoming familiar with the seating arrangement of the auditorium and learning how to efficiently conduct tours through Marshall's vast corridors.

The Marshallettes were under the direction of Miss Joan Bruggink and student supervision provided by the executive board. This year's board, appointed by Miss Bruggink, was comprised of Karen Goldman, Cathy Cording, Alana Chipman, and Jannice Worby. The girls on the board also sifted through applications to chose new members to replace those graduating. The Marshallettes, Marshall's girls in red, white and blue, were an active and hard-working crew.

Candid camera has come to Marshall! Under the supervision of its new advisor, Mr. Clayton Everman, the Marshall Camera Club spent another busy year taking sneaky pictures of student and faculty life at Marshall. They also helped out the Gavel annual and newspaper staffs by taking and developing pictures of sporting events, dances, and other student activities. Some members worked in the darkroom during their free period to develop pictures.

Besides servicing the Marshall press, club members also attended meetings to learn about new equipment and techniques, as well as the basic way to operate a camera efficiently. Membership in the Camera Club is open to any student interested in photography.

The science monitors were a group of students invaluable to Marshall's physics, biology, and chemistry teachers. These people were the "little helpers" who tried to make the teacher's job a bit easier.

These monitors assisted the teachers by mixing up solutions and getting equipment ready for experiments. They also helped by running errands. Some of them were even called upon to serve as typists, as some advanced classes did not have books and needed to use printed sheets. Along a more enjoyable line, the science monitors were allowed to feed and care for the animals used in experiments.

RIGHT: Mr. John Bruggink explains the technique of opening a locker to Rick Ludwig and Chuck Morrow.

This year, thirteen students were driver education monitors under the direction of Mr. James Fallon. Their routine included helping the teacher to grade and record tests, running errands, and acting as assistant teachers. They also helped the students in the simulators and on the driving range, and worked projectors and various other equipment.

Under the direction of Mr. John Bruggink, the locker monitors fixed faulty lockers and aided students who were having locker problems. Marshall's locker monitors were always there to lend assistance.

Language Lab monitors gave up their study halls to assist the teachers of French, German, Spanish, and Latin in the instruction of their courses and to help the students with any questions or problems they may have. Mr. Emil Heid supervised the Language Lab monitors, and taught them how to control the boothes, thread the tapes, and file records.

Every weekday morning during this past year, John Marshall was greeted by one of three cheerful voices bringing all of the important news and bulletins to the student body before their school day began. These voices belonged to seniors Rick Ludwig, Jay Hildebrandt, and Jim Kolf. Their duties were to report to Mr. Eugene Hackett's office every morning by 8:05 where they read announcements over the public address system.

One of these voices could also be heard at all home football and basketball games announcing the scores and plays. Rick Ludwig was given this honor of being official school announcer.

Several students directly involved in helping the quality of our athletic department were the team room monitors. As team room monitors they were responsible for keeping all of John Marshall's athletes in the proper uniforms and issuing the proper equipment.

Delivering call slips, opening lockers, and checking students in and out of school were some of the many duties performed by Marshall's office monitors throughout the year.

The girls helped the office operate smoothly and efficiently during the day. The girls, under the supervision of Miss Carmela Zanoni, worked during their free periods and before and after school.

Besides the forementioned duties, the monitors aided the secretaries, Mr. Hackett, and the assistant principals. They also issued detained and tardy slips, and acted as receptionists for visitors to the school. Office monitors are chosen with the approval of the assistant principals and Miss Zanoni.

Under the supervision of Mr. Daniel Thekan, the bookstore monitors performed the necessary tasks of selling books and various supplies to Marshall's student body.

The monitors kept the bookstore open throughout the day and before and after school hours. Besides selling books, the monitors sold tickets for various school functions. They also made out bank deposits, packed and shipped books, and priced books to be resold.

This year, for the first time, at the beginning of the school year a bookstore annex was set up in Room 145. The annex helped alleviate the congestion of students trying to obtain books from the regular bookstore. It made the sale of books much more efficient.

As the students of Marshall reentered the world of paper and print, they were assisted on their journey by the 40 library monitors under the direction of Mrs. Doris Rea and Mrs. Jane Boorse. These monitors gave up study periods during the day and also served before and after school. Among their duties were the tasks of checking out books, straightening shelves, and preparing books for use by both students and teachers. They also took care of the attendance duties for students using the library during their study halls.

The number of miles registered by the girls serving as guidance monitors as they delivered a countless number of call slips could have challenged the records of famous track stars. Besides escorting students into the hallowed halls of guidance row, the groups of three or four girls who served each hour assisted the counselors in many aspects of their jobs. They filed, folded, and filled out forms; looked up programs, took down numbers, and hooked up decorations on bulletin boards; they also plastered, pasted, and seldom wasted time.

The students qualified as guidance monitors upon teacher recommendations and approval of Mr. Eugene Culver, Guidance Director. Working along with Miss Pat Prpish, guidance secretary, the monitors helped lighten the stiff work load of the counselors.

John Marshall's own international society for the relief of suffering in times of war and disaster, the Junior High Red Cross Club, accomplished the feat of collecting money through their mascot, "Arnold the Pig". Arnold provided the incentive for the three hundred dollars collected. He made a contest among the junior high homerooms. The homeroom that contributed the most money was awarded prizes.

The money partly went toward a Christmas party at the Milwaukee County Children's Home. The club took a Saturday afternoon field trip down to the home to help out and participate in the Christmas party.

This year's officers, President — Julie Biller, Vice President of planning — Laurie Garrison, Vice President of publicity — Val Moslariac, Vice President of membership — Rita Hofman, Treasurer — Nancy Armstrong, Secretary — Lori Beisiegel, Sergeant at Arms — Sue Simonson, and Member at Large — Sue Tilibitts, all helped to carry out the "Arnold the Pig" contest.

When asked to comment the new advisor of the club, Mrs. Griepentrog, said, "The kids did a fantastic job and were very enthusiastic."

Throughout the school year during 4th and 5th hours Marshall's movie monitors worked. Under the supervision of Mr. Samuel Bloom, they ushered the aisles of the auditorium during the noon movies. Running the film projector and checking tickets at the entrance were just two more of the jobs of the movie monitors.

The students seen going in and out of classrooms delivering, servicing, and picking up projectors, recorders, films and phonographs were the A.V.A. monitors. The A.V.A. monitors were under the direction of Mr. Samuel Bloom. The Marshall audio-visual aids department offered senior and junior high students who have a three point grade average or better the chance to be monitors. These students had to maintain the three point grade average to stay a monitor.

Seventh and eighth grade students willing to spend time before and after school in the A.V.A. department were taught the fundamentals of operating and servicing audio-visual equipment. The junior A.V.A. students were also under the supervision of Mr. Samuel Bloom. The junior high branch of A.V.A ran the department during the summer school session. During the six weeks the monitors helped in classrooms by setting up and running the A.V.A. machines for the summer school teachers. This group gained valuable experience which will benefit Marshall as they progress into the senior A.V.A.

The Senior A.V.A. monitors gave up one study hall daily to work in the audio-visual aids department. The girls in senior A.V.A. served as secretaries by doing paper work and by signing in and out all films from the Milwaukee Public Museum. The boys in senior A.V.A., besides handling the distribution and collection of equipment, were to see that all items were kept in working condition throughout the year.

This year, the dance ensemble, under the direction of Miss Esther Heiden, was composed of thirty-seven girls who performed in special school programs and the musical. Chosen for their coordination and their ability in carrying out body movements and dance steps, these girls worked diligently eighth hour every other day, as well as before and after school. Some of their accomplishments were the Christmas Program presented to all three auditorium groups, the dance sequences in Marshall's production of Fiddler on the Roof, and a special number in the annual Visual and Performing Arts Night.

Ready and willing to help anyone in need, the clinic monitors had a big responsibility this year. The duties of these clinic monitors included helping the nurse with her daily routine and taking temperatures. They also eased the nurse's burden by aiding her with the hearing and vision tests, filling out various cards, and looking up files. By performing some of these clerical tasks, the clinic monitors gave the nurse more time to devote to the patients.

Being a gym monitor was one sure way to break up a day of study with a little refreshing exercise. Perhaps this is the reason which prompted so many students to volunteer to assist overburdened Physical Education teachers as gym monitors. Among the monitors' jobs were taking attendance, handing out towels, cleaning locker rooms, arranging files, and marking down grades. Some of the jobs that attracted monitors were acting as referee during a competitive sport, keeping score, and possibly competing, or taking part in the activities going on.

Mrs. Waltraut Raccoli, who had effectively advised the costume crew for the last seven years, turned management over to Miss Laeh Bensman this past spring. Under their new advisor, the crew helped the actors of the school play find themselves through costumes. To do this, the members studied the history of clothes through different eras of time. Miss Bensman also initiated a photo library which will aid costume selection in future Marshall productions.

At the same time the actors were performing on stage for this year's play and musical, another group of students was performing responsibilities equally as important. These responsibilities included clever use of lighting, special effects, and other stage activities.

The stage crew was under the direction of Mr. Frank Orlando. In order to achieve the best cooperation between the stage crew and the actors, it was necessary for the group to be at all rehearsals of the play and musical.

Another fine backstage performer was the make-up crew. The group was under the supervision of Mr. Richard Steele and Miss Dorothy Smith, Being more of an art than a service, the group had the responsibility of transforming the actors into the persons to be portrayed. They did this with stage, character, and age make-ups, and a considerable amount of creativity.

Help Lends a Hand to Upkeep

Working with speed, skill, endurance, and manual dexterity was Marshall's staff of engineers. Together with the cleaning staff they performed a wide variety of jobs, such as mowing the lawns, shoveling and plowing snow, controlling heating and ventilation, and receiving and sending packages.

Equal to the Galloping Gourmet not only in reputation, but also for her enticing dishes, was Mrs. Sophie Forjan, head cook at John Marshall High School.

Arriving early in the morning, the cooks busied themselves with the preparation of the students favorite dishes. The cooks prepared between 1300 and 1500 servings a day for ravenous pupils. Added to this was the garguantuan task of washing and drying trays, plates, and silverware before the next group of students converged on Mrs. Forjan's food factory.

After school hours the classrooms were dominated by a powerful task force of cleaning men and women. Chores completed by the cleaning staff included sweeping, picking up litter, emptying wastepaper baskets, and scrubbing floors, walls and windows.

Marshall's maintenance staff, headed by Mr. Harold Wendorf, was surely a vital link in the chain of school operation.

Concert Strikes Happy Note

The Senior Orchestra consisted of about 75 members in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. These students were chosen after training in the junior or intermediate groups.

Under the direction of Mr. Frank Orlando, the orchestra practiced diligently throughout the year in preparation for their various performances. They played at the Winter Concert, Spring Concert, and for the National Honor Society program. Many orchestra members also auditioned for the privilege of participating in the Bienniel Music Festival which was held in May. In addition, some 25 members of the orchestra, shosen by Mr. Orlando, provided the background music for the musical presentation, Fiddler on the Roof, last April.

Potential Musicians Bow to the Future

Musicians add another selection to their repertoire.

The Intermediate Orchestra consisted of about forty aspiring eighth and ninth grade students. Under the expert instruction of Mr. Frank Orlando, and Miss Cathleen Fraser and Miss Christina Stuopys, the student teachers, the musicians in the Intermediate Orchestra trained to become members of the Senior Orchestra in the years to come.

This year the Intermediate Orchestra participated in the Winter Concert. Selected members also played in the Junior Festival Orchestra during the Biennial Music Festival last May.

The training students acquired in the orchestra was also supplemented by private or group lessons.

Concert Tour Highlights Season

The Symphonic Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Michael Yindra, was one of the most active organizations in school. Performing at half-time ceremonies at football games, marching in the Halloween parade for 65th Street School, playing at pep rallies, and playing in the Band Revue and Spring Concert were just a few of their many diversified activities.

Held annually at one of the nearby restaurants, the Band Banquet was considered the most enjoyable social activity of the band. Movies were shown of some half-time performances at football games and humorous skits were presented. Awards were also given to the students who had given outstanding service and leadership to the band.

Bands Perform in Keynote Season

Under the direction and training of Mr. Michael Yindra, the Intermediate Band consisted of students of various grades starting at the ninth grade level. This year, there were approximately one hundred members of the Intermediate Band rehearsing during the seventh and eighth hours. This division of the band provided more individualized and thorough instruction for the students. The young musicians devotedly practiced and took the necessary lessons in hopes of later being selected to join the Senior Band.

Also striving for a position in the Intermediate Band and later the Senior Band, the members of the Junior and Eighth Grade Bands rehearsed during the second and fourth hours. A few of the seventh and eighth grade students accompanied the Intermediate Band in the Band Revue and the Spring Concert. The Junior and Eighth Grade Bands were also under the direction of Mr Yindra.

Vigorous Competition Challenges Youth

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings the Junior Girls' Gym resounded with the voices of girls having fun. These voices came from members of Marshall's Junior Girls' Athletic Association.

The participants in the year's Junior G.A.A. were those girls, ranging from grades seven through nine, interested in the field of sports. The seventh grade girls, meeting Tuesdays with Miss Charlotte Foryan, and the eighth grade girls, meeting Thursdays with Miss Joyce Dunning, participated in various activities including shuffle board, bowling, swimming, softball, and volleyball.

At the end of each semester, awards were given to the outstanding girls who did much for G.A.A. Awards were also presented to those who had an excellent record of attendance.

During seventh hour on B days, the Advanced Girls' Gym classes met in the Senior Girls Gym. Under the direction of Miss Esther Heiden, the girls improved their skills on the uneven bar, on the balance beam, in vaulting, and in free exercise. In April the class performed at the Annual Perfroming Arts Night at Marshall. The numbers they performed were in relationship with American youth in all phases of life.

Advanced Girls' Gym is built on self-discipline, unified thinking, and 100% cooperation. It is intended for girls who wish to keep their femininity while improving their body, self-assurance, and poise.

When thirty-five girls and eight boys get together in an indoor pool, there is bound to be a lot of splashing. So it was with the Marshall Catalina Club. Under the direction of Miss Sandra Sabbath, the Catalina Club met every eighth hour on B days during the school year.

The first semester of Catalina included a course of senior lifesaving. The second semester dealt with perfecting various stunts used in the Spring Catalina Show.

On May 20, 21, and 22 the Catalina Club presented their Annual Spring Show. This year the theme was the history and growth of Catalina at Marshall, featuring past numbers of years ago.

The officers of this year were Amy Hebel, student director; Diane Blasewitz, secretary-treasurer; and Sandy Berstein, historian.

Girls Figure on Fitness

The Senior Girls' Athletic Association encouraged Marshall's girls to participate in various sports. Girls from tenth through twelfth grade with some interest in learning and practicing field sports met after school in the gym on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The Senior G.A.A. girls competed against girls from their own school teams and against girls from teams from other schools in Milwaukee. The G.A.A. program included such sports as volleyball, football, basketball, and badminton.

Miss Sandra Sabbath, Miss Joyce Dunning, and Miss Esther Heiden advised the Senior G.A.A. girls in the various sports they played. Service points were awarded according to the number of wins each team accrued and how many times each girl attended.

Girls Strike For Fun

The Girls' Bowling League scores high among the after school activities at John Marshall. Girls with a will to learn or to practice bowling skills joined the club at the beginning of the year and fun prevailed. On Wednesday afternoons at Bowlero 72, Miss Carol Abraham supervised the girls, and gave them tips on good bowling techniques, which helped many of the girls increase their scores.

"Useful your lives shall be as you will care for those who cannot care for themselves." This is the main idea behind the Future Nurses of America Club.

The 46 girls comprising this club met every alternate Tuesday. With the aid of Mrs. Lois Jors, club advisor, and Mr. Harry Brooks, vocational guidance counselor, speakers and films were obtained for all aspects of the medical profession.

The officers for the 1970-1971 school year were Gayle Dittmar, president; Marie Wiederhold, vice-president; Jan Peplinski, secretary; and Joanne Werwath, treasurer.

German Club was not a club in the literal sense of the word. It was a place to meet for students who had taken or were presently taking German, and therefore, now had something in common.

Working along with advisors Mr. Rolf Altwein and Mrs. Evelyn Taus, the officers were: President, Ralph Nies; Vice-president, Mary Ziesch; Secretary, Sue Schaal; Treasurer, Carol Krohn; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Marie Wiederhold.

As a group, the students attended the Holiday Folk Fair, organized tobagganing and skating parties, held bake sales, and held their annual spring dinner at a German restaurant where the entire meal was ordered in German.

Mr. Altwein sees a great deal more in the future for German Club. He would like more stress put on customs and, in general, good old "German hoopla."

It is usually thought that to become a member in one of the foreign language clubs, one should be able to speak the native tongue of that country. To obtain membership in the John Marshall Spanish Club, however, all one needed was an interest in Spain and other Spanish-speaking countries.

The Spanish Club held its meetings on Wednesdays after school twice a month. Programs consisting of lectures also took place at these gatherings.

During the Christmas season, a festive Mexican home-style meal was served at the Yule party. "Feliz Navidad" could be heard throughout the room as members enjoyed a Spanish-style chicken casserole, tacos, and Mexican cookies. The traditional pinata was punctured, and the scramble for the treats ensued.

Through the efforts of President Terry Neumann, Vice-president Cathy Stroessner, Secretary Karol Pollard, Treasurer Debby Ryback, and advisor Mrs. Carol Laurence, a very successful year was enjoyed by the Spanish Club.

This past year, the Latin Club has been involved in many activities. A practice enacted last year — giving out scholarships to Latin students desering of financial assistance — was continued this year with an increase from 5 to 10 one hundred dollar scholarships. Club members themselves earned the money for the scholarships by selling candy, and the Latin students selected the scholarship recipients.

The officers of Latin Club were: Morris Mauer, president; Bonnie Mechanic, vice-president; Nancy Geller, secretary; Marie Dailey, treasurer; and Larry Lockwood, seargent-at-arms. With Miss Elaine Steiger and Mr. John Shissler acting as advisors, the club organized the annual Plebe sale, when the new members were sold as slaves to the older members, and later the Patrician sale, when the positions of slave and master were reversed.

The annual Latin Banquet, held in May at a local restaurant, summed up the year's activities. Clad in the traditional togas, Latin Club members successfully recreated an ancient Roman atmosphere.

Parlez-vous Francais? If one did speak French, he could join in on the fun in the French Club. The purpose of the club is to provide a better background of French culture to interested students.

The club celebrated Left Bank Day, when blank pieces of paper were placed on a bulletin board and students could draw anything they liked on them. On November 19, they celebrated Saint Catherine's Day and members made hats in honor of the patron saint of old maids. Awards were given to members accumulating the most points in May.

The highlight of the year was the annual French Club dinner in May. Members prepared and ate traditional French dishes.

The officers of the club were President, Marilyn Hilgart; Vice-president, Leslie Fitzwater; and Secretary-Treasurer, Kanchan Patil. The club advisor was Miss Harmony Weissbach.

Under the direction of its advisor, Mr. John Schaeffer, the World Travel Club journeyed to many new and interesting places this year. They viewed these places through the use of films and slides. Their meetings were also enhanced by the presence of outside guest speakers and students who spoke about their travels.

Club members learned how to get the most out of their travels by discussing the best means of travel and the most interesting places to visit. Membership is open to anyone enrolled in a geography or history class and has an interest in travel.

Mr. Alfred Stuermer once again advised the John Marshall Senior Math Club about material other than usual high school mathematics. The Senior Math Club informed its members about higher forms of mathematics through films, booklets, and other resource materials. To be eligible for membership in the Senior Math Club one had to have a B average or better in all subjects and a genuine interest in mathematics. This past year, the Senior Math Club had a total membership of fifty participating students. This club was not just Marshall oriented. Many of the students that joined were aware of the fact that more exposure to math would make for a better career in the field of mathematics.

About thirty Marshall students met regularly every Thursday afternoon in a new club called People. This new club, founded by Cindy Gollin last September, concerned itself about current issues. The meetings were directed by Miss Linda Muldoon. The meetings were usually carried on in this fashion: A student, weary from a hard day of school, stepped into Room 245, surveyed the room for friend or foe, then got right down to taking part in the relaxing, healthy, and often invigorating activity of discussing, and sometimes arguing, the issues of the time. The issues varied form sex to freeing Angela Davis, with religion, war, psychology, and many others in between. The members of the club ranged in grade levels from seventh to twelth.

Business Aires Instilled

DECA, the Distributive Education Club of America, is intended to help those senior students interested in a career in business after graduation. The seniors enrolled in the Distributive Education program attended classes half days and worked the other half day at one of the business establishments in cooperation with the Distributive Education program. Students received credit for their work and were also graded by their employers on the efficiency of their working abilities.

The membership of 22 students was under the direction of Mrs. Judith Mielke. The experience gained by the participants has helped them in preparation for their full-time jobs in the business world.

Students Recycle Waste

Making people aware of our ecological problems today was the main reason why Earth Action was formed this year. Not content with merely being informed about ecological problems, Earth Action wanted to do something about them. Their main purpose was to encourage fellow students and the consumer public to take positive steps against pollution.

Under the advisorship of Miss Linda Muldoon and Mr. John Zielinski, the club had tried to accomplish something towards eliminating pollution by collecting and recycling old newspapers and non-returnable glass bottles. They also passed out leaflets at neighboring grocery stores containing the phosphate content of laundry and dishwashing detergents, and tips on how pollution can be avoided in one's own home.

The Future Teachers of America Club was an organization which was formed for the purpose of promoting and encouraging students interested in pursuing education and related careers.

Some of the fund — raising projects of the club were the taffy-apple sales in the foyers after school, and the individual sale by the members of Marshall Eagle booster buttons.

One of the undertakings of the members of F.T.A. was acting as tutors for those students requesting help in various subjects with which they were having difficulty. The members of F.T.A. also attended Teachers' Convention in November to acquaint themselves with some of the aspects of the teaching profession.

The F.T.A. Club was under the supervision of Mr. Harry Wilson. The club's officers included Debbie Dryja, president; Barb Victor, vice-president; Lynn Opgenorth, treasurer; Barbara Denemark, corresponding secretary; and Stefanie Manion, tutoring chairman.

Did you ever wonder how pollution affects plant growth? Or of the hidden potential of solar energy? At present, the answers are not known. However, during the past year at Marshall, members of the Science Club, advised by Mr. Marcel Lachenmann, attempted, by using the scientific method and controlled experimentation, to reach conclusions. Primarily, the purpose of the club was to enable students to work on projects that had captivated their interest. In addition to working on projects, students watched films on various topics. Field trips were also a common feature on the agenda.

International Sport Kicks In

The Blue Eagles of Marshall's Soccer Club, advised and coached by Mr. John Schissler, completed the season with 3 wins and 3 losses. The Blue Eagles won a personal victory against the Kickers, whom they had never scored against. In the 38° temperature and severe rain storm, Marshall beat the Kickers in a 2-1 victory to end the season.

Resolve: That the federal government should establish, finance, and administer programs to control air and water pollution in the United States.

This was the resolution debated by the John Marshall debate team for the entire year of 1971. The team consisted on the affirmative side of Nancy Geller and Joe Lepgold and on the negative side of George Koleas and Jim Kolf. The affirmative team lost only once in dual meet competition, while the negative team completed the season undefeated. Guided by advisor Mr. Edward Pierce, the debate team took a first place standing in the north side tournament and from there went on to tie for first in the city tournament. This proved to be one of the debate team's most successful years.

The Lettermen's or M-Club, meets once a month under the direction of its faculty advisor, Mr. Frederick Winter. The club consists of boys who have won major letters in recognition of fine performance while participating in at least one of ten varsity sports throughout the school year. This year's officers were: Morris Mauer, president; Roland Wolferstetter, vice-president; Michael Rapp, secretary; Terry Parmelee, treasurer; and Mark Meisinger, sergeant-at-arms.

The 70 members of the Lettermen's Club conducted sales throughout the year for the purpose of buying gifts and equipment for the school. They were responsible for putting shirts on the backs of Marshall students with their Marshall T-shirt drive, conducted during mid-year. The members also act as ushers at open houses and graduation.

The Afro-American Club was started in the early spring of last year and is now under the direction of Miss Gloria Bolden. The only requirement that one needed to become a member was to want to learn about black culture. Whether the meetings were long or short, the purpose of the Afro-American Club was to learn of the ideas of the black man, and to find out his many contributions to society over the years. Club officers were: President, Carolyn Smith; Vice-president, Marie Daily; Secretary, Stephanie Jackson; and Treasurer, Joann Gold.

As styles constantly change, our clubs change, too. Started just last year, the Photo Information Club, run by Mr. Marcel Lachenmann, was in a class by itself. There are three reasons why the Photo Information Club was different. First, teachers, as well as students, came to the meetings. Secondly, there were no set dues, and thirdly, there were no officers. The meetings were quite unofficial and fluctuated in length. The club's activities were paid for by passing the kitty.

Marshall's philatelists met every second and fourth Thursday in Room 213. Here members of the Stamp Club, advised by Mr. Elden Hunter, gave talks, held trading sessions, and generally added to and refined their stamp collections. The club's officers were Philip Wala, president; Bruce Ramme, vice-president; and George Breu, secretary.

The Stamp Club had the distinction of being one of the oldest clubs at Marshall, as it has been in continuous existance since the first semester the school opened. It is also one of the only clubs to boast of a teacher-member, Mr. Peter Larscheid.

Room 132 was the scene of a great deal of activity every Thursday evening after school. Clicking needles and cheery voices marked the weekly meetings of the Knitting Club. Under the direction and guidance of Mrs. Margaret Polomis, the members learned to knit, and then embarked on special individual projects such as scarves and afghans. Sue Gullickson held the office of president, while Kathy Nell served as secretary of the Knitting Club.

Royalty Rules The Board

Meeting every Tuesday and Thursday evenings after school in Room 136, the members of Marshall's high-scoring Chess Club brought out their trusty boards and commenced playing.

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Joseph Frenn, the Marshall Chess Club gained third place competing against sixteen other teams in a tournament set up by the Milwaukee High School League to which they belong. Thirty students from grades seven through twelve joined the Chess Club this year. Chess is a mental exercise requiring concentration and the use of well thought-out strategy. The game also provided excitement and good competition for the members as they tried to earn the top position.

Domestics Dominate

Cooking and sewing were the specialties of Marshall's Home Economics Club. Mrs. Carolyn Cain, who acted as advisor, helped the girls with their projects and answered all the questions asked of her by the club's twenty-five members. Meeting every other Wednesday, the members had many parties celebrating the various holidays. When the girls brought in things they baked, clothes they made, and clothes they needed help with in making, Mrs. Cain was always there to assist them.

Aiding Mrs. Cain were this year's Home Economics Club officers. Karen Tibbitts held the position of president, Jo Anne Karner that of vice-president, and Jean LaDew acted as club secretary.

This year's Drama Club placed special emphasis on individual participation in the dramatic arts. The members were provided with many opportunities to display their talent at the regular meetings of the club every first and third Tuesday of the month. Said Vicky Sebele, club president, "We are trying to get more people to take an active role in running the club."

In addition to sponsoring the traditional theatre parties, the Drama Club encouraged participation in such other activities as the school play and musical. Members of the Drama Club also took part in the presentation of an original script on the Channel 10 TV program Contact. The skit, appropriately entitle the "Cough-In," was a take-off on Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In and humorously brought out the evils of smoking.

Another Drama Club tradition is the annual "Be Our Guest" variety show. This year, the show was presented on Thursday, December 11, to an audience of approxmiately 300 enthusiastic Marshallites. Under the direction of the first semester Drama Club officers, President Vicky Sebele, Vice-president Cheryl Rae Gardiner, and Secretary Cherie Metzelfeld, in association with Nadine Siegman and club advisor Mr. Ralph Bielenberg, the show was one of the highlights of the Drama Club's year.

In December, elections were held to determine the officers for the spring semester. The results were as follows: Cherie Metzelfeld, president; Cheryl Rae Gardiner, vice-president; and Tina Fauber, secretary.

Eugene P. Hackett

Principal

John Marshall Junior-Senior High School faculty and students welcomed a new principal this past year, Mr. Eugene Hackett.

Mr. Hackett believes that high school is a time for the pleasures of learning. A place where a student learns to develop his physical skills.

"High school is a time where a student can learn to relate to their peers socially, and to learn facts which man has accumulated and learn to use these facts to think."

He feels it is also a time for learning to discern some goals that a person may pursue for the rest of his life, and a time of learning self-confidence.

Mr. Hackett hopes that Marshall students would be more interested in what they learned in their various classes than in what grades they received. He hopes students would learn to accept one another as fellow human beings and to overcome the cliquishness of the school. Mr. Hackett went on to state that he wishes students could identify more with the school inspite of the greatness of its size.

He would like students to realize that school is a place instituted for success and not failure.

Mr. Hackett is pleased by the fact that most activities performed at Marshall are at such an excellent level.

Wayne Elliott

Assistant Principal

"High school is a time for discovery," states Mr. Wayne Elliott, assistant principal. He thinks it is a time in which we discover many things. We now obtain an identity, and learn our different roles in respect to work.

It is a time to discover other people. We now have inter-personal relationships between young men and women, and we can benefit from them. At this time, we discover the differences among people and how to cope with them.

Mr. Elliott states that in grade school we were somewhat spoon fed, but now we discover that some responsibilities must rest on our shoulders.

"The last thing students in high school should be discovering is life itself and basically what it is."

Mr. Elliot hopes to find in the educational system a setting in which students find the time to talk about life.

"We seem only to be learning how to learn, not learning how to live."

Lastly, Mr. Elliott believes that every action we perform has an effect on another human being.

Jack Felser

Assistant Principal

Mr. Jack Felser, assistant principal, thinks of high school at Marshall in terms of seventh through twelfth grade. This is a time, he feels, for developing physically, mentally, and socially, and that involvement plays an important part in growing up. He suggests that this development brings about an understanding of ourselves as well as our friends and family, and that through this understanding we become involved in life and with other people.

Mr. Felser also feels that high school is a time for study. Junior high and grade school are a time for experimenting and developing good habits, and high school is the time to use these good study skills to prepare for the future.

Mr. Felser thinks Marshall is a very successful school, and the involvement of students in activities is good.

"There is a terrific school spirit on the part of both the faculty and students."

The friendly relationship between the junior high and senior high, along with a real team approach, pleases Mr. Felser.

Kathy,
I've only known you for one year but it's been a great one. I hope you have a nice summer and I'll see you next year.

Have a nice summer body with more stuff to be a nice model. I'll still turn you on, keep it cool and together
